You're not alone as new research commissioned by Intuit QuickBooks has revealed a 30 percent uptick in the number of people in the UK who are planning to start a business or register as self-employed in 2020. According to data from Companies House (opens in new tab), 1.4m limited company or self-employed registrations were filled out in 2019 and that figure has risen to 1.8m new registrations this year. Intuit QuickBooks' independent research of 2,500 people also identified a number of other indicators of confidence among early-stage entrepreneurs. The firm's research found that 10 percent of self-employed people plan to put their first employee on payroll, 23 percent of business owners are likely to move from kitchen table to premises for the first time, 35 percent of established business owners plan to hire at least one new person and 21 percent of business owners are likely to bring in external funding for the first time. Taking the next step The self-employed research respondents surveyed by Intuit QuickBooks also had a wide range of low-level concerns when it comes to taking the next big step in their business journey. These concerns included being able to consistently afford their salary (28%), whether or not the new employee is 'good enough' at their job (21%), Brexit uncertainty (18%), understanding employment and payroll regulations (14%) and standing out from the crowd of employers (13%). VP and UK country manager at Intuit QuickBooks, Chris Evans provided further insight on the results of the firm's research, saying: "Our research shows there's optimism across the country, particularly for those keen to start or grow your business. Small businesses are the backbone of our economy - we have to do everything we can to support them, to help them be more productive and prosper. I'm regularly talking to small business owners across the country, I understand the challenges they can face daily, just to keep an even keel. The prospect of increasing sales or workforce can be both exciting and discouraging, especially if this means taking more responsibility or having to perform wages. However, with the right digital tools and support in place, you can manage and grow your business. /ManageMy Account To update contact details, renew your subscription and find out when your next number should be delivered. It allows employees to share their feedback or reviews anonymously. For potential applicants, Glassdoor offers extensive tools for researching a company and getting to know performance, benefits, wage relationships, among others. Glassdoor was founded by Robert Hohman, Rich Barton and Tim Besse in 2007. The work review site is based in Mill Valley, California and employs about 800 people. The site is also available on separate domains for regions such as Canada, United Kingdom and Australia. Reviews can be read and published on the Glassdoor website or on the official smartphone app for iOS or Android. There are millions of reviews, wage reports and interview reviews published on Glassdoor. Job seekers can search for company reviews and ratings simply by entering the name of the a a erdecorp e otis lus itrartsiger ioup .kcabdeef nu eraiscal iouv e Ateicos anu ni otaroval iah eS. otof e idnepts .iroval imiltu .inoisnecr noc etarapes edehcs eterevort adneizal'led aniqap alognis ingo uS .enoizisop al e a ReviewcAA. For employers, Glassdoor is the perfect platform to post new jobs. By advertising new jobs, recruiters and firms can reach over 41 million potential candidates. You can also use the free tools to start promoting your brand. Additionally, you can respond to reviews of users and avoid the negative ratings.Á AFor more information or queries on registrations, payment, refund, cancellation, or others, reach the Glassdoor customer service. ÁSorry to interruptCSS Error Evil company aim to destroy all businesses unless you pay the ransom.It kills business quickly and kills users slowly by making them unhappy and angry. Glassdoor provides a platform where you can blame everything else for your own mistake or failure, but it doesn't help you improve and look things positively for happiness. I find Glassdoor is highly unethical company. Making profit from others misery.It should be banned.Read how Glassdoor making money on indeed:I hate to work at this place. They look like they trying to build a review website, but in fact all they do it so chase the money. I work in customer support, I deal with small business owners whose only good reviews got removed so we can sell them services. While the big corporation who paid us, they remove the negative reviews. Everybody in the company knows that glassdoor is not a profitable business by running reviews, and their ads suck. I deal with clients asking why the glassdoor ads never pull any qualified candidates all the time. This is literally the only way they can make money. I do not approve of that, and I told my manager that I am not comfortable because any other job I had was actually helping people solving problems. The Manager tried to "educate me on business". I guess they do that is because they are trying to go public and they are trying to prove that they are profitable. I have a business degree, I may not be a business expert, but I know the basics. Even I know It is not a sustainable way. How about you actually solve your services, and they actually do them work, then people will actually enroll for your services. Because apparently indeed, a free workplace website, works much better than frostingdoor, glassdoor,
